gan, I had an opportunity to look up some data relating to the Indians thereabout than a continuous the Indians thereabout the Umatilias have for many years been under the influence of a Jesuit mission, and they have attained a higher plane of civilization than most tribes seem capable of reaching. I was impressed with the general appearance of these people. Their blankets and red petticoats indicated a degree of neatness which is unusual, and the gree of neatness which is unusual, and the orderly bearing of the backs and squaws showed them to have been trained with no low degree of conformity to the rules of decent society. Their faces indicate considerable intelligence, and I learned that chair samutation as low shifting and index. their reputation as law abiding and industrious citizens is good. The standard of morality among them, I am told, is high.

Many of them are thrifty farmers. As the traveler is whirled past the railroad stations in the reservation they may be seen driving modern farm wagons, well filled with wheat, to the warehouses for sale. Their horses show the best of care, and many of them are fine, well bred specimens, for these Indians take great pride in their horses, and raise good unimals for the markets. The Umatilla's horses are often well built farm horses, and they have carriages and buggies of equal grade with their white neighbors. The tribe is not a strong one numerically, there being not more than 40) heads of families. Those I have been under the surgested Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption and that no more than 40) heads of families. Those I have defined to make the surge seed Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself learnified from hirst dose. She continued its use and after taking ten bottles, found herself sound and well, now does her own housework and is as well as she ever was.—Free trial bottles of this great discovery at Flocken's drug sale. Their horses show the best of care, Highwarden's Habt.

Ale Highwarden, a colored individual of some notoriety in police circles, was arrested Sunday evening for the very carriers and hard forms, and they have carriers and hard farm horses and they have carriers and hard farm horses, and they have carriers and hard farm horses and the specific means are fine, well bred specific means for them are fine, well bred specific means for the markets. of this great discovery at Flocken's drug store, large bottles 50c, and 81 imbibed the spirit of modern civilization.

An engine attached to a Chicago and deciding to adopt the white man's suggestions. He was informed that under the laws of the land but one of them was his legal wife, and he could put the others away by giving them to some single man in marriage. He said that he would give away all three of his aquaws, and take the daughter of his adviser as his legal squaw. But the missionary preferred not to give his daughter as a reward for reform.
